CREAM OF NEWS.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

Big Lawsuit—Flick Sentenced—Dead in Bed—Laudary Burned—High Taxes Explained—Amusements.

May Result in Death.

The condition of Mrs. Lulus Harris, of Sharon Grove, Todd county, who was very badly burned recently, is still critical, and there is now scarcely any hope of her recovery.

Successful Relic Hunter.

Mr. E. D. Coburn, better known as "Squedue," has been out north of Elkton among the Indian mounds, gathering relics. He was successful in finding about 100 rare tokens, some of which will doubtless be of considerable value.

B. & B.

Those two wide awake young insurance men, Frank Buckner and Harry Bryan, have united their agencies under the firm name of Buckner & Bryan, and will make a rattling team of hustling "Busy Bs."

Death of Joseph Boyd.

Lafayette, Jan. 16.—Died last night at his home about two miles west of here, in Trigg county, Mr. Joseph M. Boyd, of the grip, aged 67 years. Mr. Boyd was one of the most highly respected citizens of the community. His wife is very ill of the same disease, and her recovery is extremely doubtful.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mrs. Sarah Young, wife of the late Chas. Young, of Herndon, died quite suddenly Sunday night, aged 35 years. She had been afflicted with heart disease for several months, but just before her demise she had prepared herself for what she called "a good night's rest," and retiring, soon fell asleep. Before the rest of the family "turned in" for the night Mrs. Young was asked if she needed any special attention. There was no reply. And when an investigation was made it was found that she was a corpse.

Clarksville Laundry Burned.

Clarksville, Jan. 19.—The Cumberland Laundry, on Third street, was discovered on fire last night just before 8 o'clock, the blaze being caused by an electric wire in the rear of the second story. No other buildings were damaged. The machinery, owned by Messrs. Curtis & Venable, was valued at $4,500, but the exact loss cannot now be estimated. It was insured for $3,000 with Kennedy & Munford. The building was owned by W. M. Daniel, and is only damaged in the second story, perhaps $100, with no loss of life.

One Flick Sent Up.

Sam Plack, the negro who was arrested near Peachy's Mills last Friday, by Sheriff Collier, of Clarksville, was brought here by Deputy Sheriff Wilkins, of this city, and lodged in jail Tuesday. Yesterday morning Plack was tried before the county judge and given 25 days in the work house. He was charged with shooting at another negro near Greasy last August and an indictment was returned against him at the September term of circuit court, but he had managed to keep out of the way of the officers until taken in as above stated.

Why Your Taxes Are Higher.

It is beginning to dawn upon even the thickest-headed people in this part of the country that Republican rule is an expensive and unsatisfactory experiment. The present county officers who are paid salaries nearly all had their salaries increased when they went into office and there has been a good deal of extravagance in several directions. One of the first results of this reckless use of public money was seen last year when county taxes had to be increased from 42½ to 50 cents. Perhaps you wondered why your taxes were higher last year than they were a year or two ago. Well, it is explained when you remember that a Democratic administration has been succeeded by a Republican administration of county affairs. But the end is not yet. Assessments are being raised, although values are going down, and taxes are constantly growing heavier and heavier upon the burdened people. The next turn to the screw will be made when the Legislature is called together to increase the State taxes to the highest limit, and then the State Board of Equalization, which raised the assessment $18,000,000 last year, will again get in the work on the tax ridden people. Before we get through with Republicanism, National, State and local, we shall find that such experiments come naturally too high for these times of McKinley prosperity.

A base ball league has been organized in Evansville. It will be known as the Central league. It will be composed of clubs from Memphis, Little Rock, Cairo, Nashville, Terre Haute and Evansville.

PRO RATA CONVENTION APRIL 8.

Democratic Judicial District Committee Calls a Convention at Murray.

It is hereby ordered that on the 3rd day of April, 1897, at 2 o'clock p. m., there shall be held at each voting precinct of the Third Judicial district, at the usual voting places, a convention of the supporters of the Chicago platform of 1896 and all who pledge themselves to support the nominee of this convention, to express their choice for candidates for circuit court judge and commonwealth's attorney; and delegates shall be appointed to meet at the county seats of the respective counties on the 4th day of April, 1897. Each precinct shall be allowed one delegate vote in said county convention for each 50 votes and fraction over 25 cast for the Bryan electors in 1896, provided that each precinct shall have at least one delegate vote. It is further ordered that the delegates of the precinct conventions shall meet in their respective county conventions upon the date named above for the purpose of appointing delegates to a district convention to be held in Murray Ky., on the 8th day of April, 1897, and each candidate voted for shall be the appointment of county delegates to the district convention be allowed his proportion of the delegate vote of the county, as shown by his precinct delegate strength in the county conventions.

The delegate votes of the counties shall be "pro rata" in such a manner as to express the will of the voters as shown by their votes in the precinct conventions. The representation of the several counties in said district convention shall be fixed upon the basis of one delegate vote for each 200 votes and fraction over 100 cast for the Bryan electors in 1896, the said counties being entitled to the following strength respectively: Calloway 13, Christian 16, Lyon 5, Trigg 8.

Done at Edwille, Ky., this Jan. 20, 1897, by the Democratic Executive committee of the Third Judicial district.

Teachers' Attention.

The teachers' association for the Second district, of which mention has been frequently made of late, will meet in Henderson on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 29th and 30th. This will be, we hope, an exceedingly profitable meeting, and no teacher in Christian county nor in the Second district can afford to remain away from it. A reduction in railroad fare has been granted, a rate of one and one third for the round trip. This will make the railroad fare about $3. Board has been arranged for in the best families at 50 cents per day, so that about $5 will cover the necessary expense of the trip. I hope the teachers will make a special effort to attend and thus identify themselves with your own district organization. You will enjoy the trip and be greatly benefited, I am sure.

COUNTY GRADUATES EXAMINATION.

The examination of applicants for certificates of graduation in the common school course will be held on Thursday, Jan. 28th at South Kentucky college, beginning at 9 o'clock. We hope to have a large number of graduates this year from the district schools. One night during the institute next summer will be set apart for graduation exercises and the diplomas will be presented publicly at that time. Teachers, urge your pupils who have completed the requirements to come and take the examination and receive the diploma.

Co. Supt.

Died at Nashville.

Elkton, Ky., Jan. 20.—Mrs. George Snaden, wife of the well known Guthrie capitalist, died in Nashville today, and will be interred at Clarksville to-morrow. She was Miss Leticia Northington.

She had been in ill health for some time, but was thought to be improving until a few days before her death. Mrs. Snaden was the granddaughter of Samuel Watkins, a wealthy farmer, who had large interests there. The body was shipped to Guthrie accompanied by her husband, George Snaden, and his brother and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snaden of Clarksville, and Mr. Claude Mims, brother-in-law of the deceased, Mrs. Snaden leaves three young children: Bishop O. P. Fitzgerald, who performed the marriage ceremony for Mr. and Mrs. Snaden, left with the party and officiated at the funeral services.

Mary E. Wilkins is engaged in writing a series of striking sketches of new England neighborhood life for The Ladies Home Journal. They will portray a small community's social indulgences, sketching the old fashioned quilting party, the time-worn singing school and an apple-paring tree.

BILL BRAME KILLED.

FILLED FULL OF BUCKSHOT BY TOM WOOTTON.

End of a Fued of Long Standing—Clear Case of Self Defense—Occurred Yesterday at Herndon.

W. T. Brame was shot and killed at Herndon, Ky., yesterday at 1:30 o'clock by Tom W. Wootton, in a street duel precipitated by Brame.

For several months there has been bad blood between the men. Brame, who was the most dangerous man in that part of the county, had repeatedly threatened to kill Wootton. The differences between them grew out of political differences to some extent, Wootton being a Democrat and Brame a Republican politician and leader.

About two weeks ago Brame met Wootton's fifteen-year old boy in the road and cursed and abused him and told him to go and tell his "tallow-faced son of a b—daddy to come out of doors and shoot the thing out and be done with it." Wootton was away from his store, but the boy told him of Brame's fresh threats. He did not resent the insults, but loaded up his shotgun with buckshot for just what occurred.

Yesterday Brame rode by Wootton's door holding a pistol in his hand. He looked in at Wootton's door but Brame was sitting behind some boxes reading. Some one called his attention to Brame, saying: "There goes Bill Brame with his pistol out." Wootton raised up to look out of the door and at the same time Brame glanced around and wheeled his horse and leveled his pistol at Wootton. The latter reached for his gun behind the door and stepping into the door fired one barrel, hitting Brame in the shoulder. Brame rolled from his horse, took aim and fired at Wootton, hitting him about forty yards distant. His ball struck the house above Wootton's head. Wootton then took deliberate aim and shot Brame with the other barrel in the side and back, as he turned partly around. Brame was taken into the tobacco factory and died in 40 minutes. Wootton came at once to town and gave himself up.

Wootton is now in jail and his examining trial will be held Monday before Judge Breathitt. Brame was about 45 years old. He killed an L. & N. conductor named Jas. L. Lemon, at Baker's Hill, Tenn., a few years ago, for putting him off his train, and for the crime served a two-year's term in the Nashville penitentiary.

He also killed Sheriff Beumont, of Clarksville, some 15 years ago and had killed a negro since that time. He had three notches on his gunstock.

When he got out he came back to this county and was elected marshal of Lafayette and in 1894 was elected constable of that district. He was also a detective of some note. He was a dead game man and a terror to half the county.

Wootton is about 50 years old and is a man of undaunted courage. Cool and fearless, he never loses his head and though he has been in the courts for violating the liquor laws occasionally, he was a man who attended to his own business and never had any serious trouble before. There seems to be no doubt that he acted in his necessary self-defense.

MISS SMITH'S RECITAL.

A Delightful Social Event at Bethel College.

The musical and elocutionary recital followed by a reception at Bethel Female College Monday night to introduce the new teacher, Miss Blanche E. Smith, to the public, was the most decided success scored at any of those delightful college entertainments. Not less than two hundred of the most cultured and intelligent people of the city were present and the reception given Miss Smith was of the most flattering character. Her reading, singing and recitation, her beautiful applause and she was again and again called upon to respond to the frequent encores. This she did each time in a modest and unassuming manner, showing talent as diversified as it is genuine and cultivated.

Miss Ida Groer, the accomplished violinist, and Miss Kate Harrison, whose sweet music selections were enjoyed by all, assisted Miss Smith in the well arranged programme. Prof. Harrison is entitled to the thanks of all his friends who were there, for the very delightful entertainment they were privileged to attend.

The public will be fortunate if these accomplished young ladies will give other similar recitals during the session.

HUNTING LIONS.

Somewhat the Favorite Hunt of English Sportsmen.

In recent years scores of Englishmen and Americans have gone to Africa on hunting expeditions. Somewhat has been a favorite sport, and the crack of the rifle has become familiar to the natives, as well as to the wild animals, says the Atlanta Journal.

As a result lions are becoming somewhat scarce, and elephants are exceptionally rare. In order to get a shot at the king of beasts now it is necessary to go back into the country a considerable distance, where other hunters have not been too often seen.

Hunting lions, as described by those who have tried it, is a fascinating sport. The element of danger is largely imaginary, but there is enough of the reality to add zest to the sport. Two methods are in vogue. The most common is to track the lions to their resting places and catch them while asleep.

Lions hunt at night and rest in a cool, shady spot during the day. If the weather is clear and they are hungry they may stay out in the open a little longer, but, as a rule, they crawl into a jungle soon after sunrise and remain until night again makes travel comfortable for them. They can be soon wakened into exhaustion when the sun is shining, and they endeavor to avoid exertion when the mercury is high.

Tracking lions is described as an excitingly exciting to the sportsman. After striking the trail in the early morning and following it for some distance, the certainty of getting sight of the game keeps hunter and servants in a state of expectancy that is trying. At times, if the trail is fresh, the lion may be located within a few minutes.

At other times the beast may have gone miles, and the tracking will occupy several hours. The character of the soil has much to do with the trail, as on sandy ground the spoor is plain and may be followed as fast as the hunter cares to walk, while on rocky soil the trail is often lost and the hunter must proceed with extreme care.

The other popular way of bagging the great game is to set a bait and stay awake at night looking for the lions. A donkey or the carcass of a dead animal will serve as bait, and will attract the hungry attention of any stray lion that may pass.

In a country where there are many hyenas this method of hunting lions is most satisfactory, as the cries of the hyenas will lure the larger game from its hiding place. Of course, moonlight nights are better for this form of hunting.

ENOUGH FOR THE MONEY.

The Customer Expected Too Much for His $30 Suit.

Sometimes a particular person expects too much, and in the following case if the complainant really had a grievance the other got the best of the argument.

"See here, what do you mean by this?" exclaimed an irate customer, as he rushed into a tailor shop and excitedly thrust a piece of cloth into the hands of the proprietor.

"Vot it is, dis?" inquired the tailor.

"It's that suit I ordered here the other day—that's what it is," continued the caller hoarsely. "An' it's the worst I ever saw. Your sign there in the window says 'A Perfect Fit Guaranteed,' but when I got home and tried that suit on it made me look like a country boy and nearly drove my wife into hysterics."

"Well," drawled the imperturbable man of the shears. "I guess hysterics is de best we can do for you in de line of fits. You certainly can't expect us to give you a perfect fit with a $30 suit of clothing."—Lewiston Journal.

Seeing Defects.
Seeing flaws is a good business, or a bad business, according to your purpose in observing. An inspector of machinery, or a corrector of faults, does well to note defects in order to supply what is lacking. But a man who is trying to get the most power he can, safely, out of a machine as it stands, should not profit by the best words of a speaker or writer, had better not trouble himself over what is lacking. It is enough for him to recognize and use what there is. The average fault-finder gets no good himself, and does no good to anybody else. The lowest grade of intellect commonly shows itself in the power to see obvious defects. The highest grade evidences itself in finding something worth seeing where the average man would miss it.—S. —Clara: "I suppose the brightest moment in your life was when Jack proposed?" Cora: "Brightest? There wasn't a particle of light in the room!"—Yonkers Statesman.

—Prison Inspector: "That man over there seems to positively enjoy the treadmill." Farmer: "Yes, sir. 'E's used to the wheel. 'E was a bicycle thief." "I second the motion," said the man on the rear of the tandem.—Household Words.

—Isn't Larimer dreadfully exclusive? said Hiland to Halket. "Decidedly so," replied the latter. "When he hears a story difficult to believe he never advises the reporter to repeat it to the marines." "What does he do?" "He tells him to repeat it to the ultra-marines."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

At the Gin Shop: Mrs. Mossy (hobnobbing): "My respect, and how's your family settled, Mrs. Dossy?" "Nicely, thank you, meen. Sarah and Alice is in a formatory, Bill's been took in 'ome, and Joe's repaid a refuge. Ah, they do look after 'em well, those good gentlemen."—Household Words.

"I wanted to speak to you about that dog you sold me," said the small man. "Well, he's all there, ain't he?" "Yes. But you told me he was a hunting dog." "Do you mean to contradict what I said?" "Not for the world, sir. Not for the world. But I will go so far as to say I didn't understand that his specialty was hunting a place to lie down in."—Washington Star.

—The telephone is a great institution. Little Binks always wanted to tell big Brasher that he thought him a mendacious scoundrel, so he rang him up on the other side one morning and did it. "Oh, I am, am I?" roared Brasher furiously. "I am, sir? Well, I'll fix you when we meet. Who are you?" "None of your business," said little Binks, and to this moment Brasher doesn't know who did it.—Harper's Bazar.

FAMOUS WAR HORSES.

Six Battle Steeds of the Century Celebrated in Song and Story.

Chief among the most celebrated war horses of our nearly completed nineteenth century may be mentioned Marengo, Copenhagen, Cincinnati, Traveler, Lexington and Winchester, the favorite chargers of Napoleon, Wellington, Grant, Lee, Sherman and Sheridan. The American battle steeds I saw riding after the war of 1861-65, Winchester, the most widely celebrated of the four in song and story, enjoyed the unique distinction of having his gallant master as a biographer. After his death in 1878, he was skillfully mounted by a taxidermist and is to be seen among the many relics of the Mexican and civil wars included in the most interesting collections of the museum of the Military Service Institution on Governor's Island, New York harbor. I may perhaps be permitted to remember that I have conversed with two important personages who had ridden Napoleon's and Wellington's favorite war horses, and have seen many memorials of those celebrated chargers, such as their painted portraits, their hoofs now transformed into silver-mounted snuffboxes and inkstands; bracelets and breastpins made from their hair, and Marengo's skeleton, a treasured relic of the United Service Institution at Whitehall, London. Cincinnati, Copenhagen, Lexington and Traveler all received honorable burial, after having enjoyed a "old age of dignified leisure," while over the grave of the illustrious English soldier's charger stands a marble tombstone with a brief and beautiful inscription, written by his eldest son, the second duke, who erected it soon after Wellington's death at Walmer castle.—Gen. James Grant Wilson, D. C. L., in Our Animal Friends.

Royal Extravagance.

According to a London paper Prince Albert Edward of Wales is a very extravagant man. It is asserted that he has spent over $50,000,000 in 33 years. Of this amount he has received $25,000,000 from the English nation as a regular allowance, and $5,000,000 for traveling expenses and special allowances. The other $20,000,000 is in the form of private debts.

The Man-Faced Crab.

One of the most singular-looking creatures that ever walked the earth or swam the waters under the earth is the world-famous man-faced crab of Japan. Its body is hardly an inch in length, yet the head is fitted with a face which is the perfect counterpart of that of a Chinese coolie—a veritable missing link, with eyes, nose and mouth all clearly defined.

One Mode of Execution.

The Chinese condemn criminals to death by preventing sleep. Sufferers last from 12 to 15 days, when death comes to their relief.

CARING FOR CREAM.

Some Very Valuable Suggestions for Butter Makers.

Milk may be set for cream in various kinds of vessels and under different conditions. The poorest method is to set it shallow in pans or in cracks on pantry shelves or in a cellar. Milk thus set is exposed to a greater air contact than when set otherwise, and so is more liable to be affected by injurious odors. By the cream is transmitted through the atmosphere, and by heat and cold. Milk so set will sometimes rapidly sour, or in very cold weather may freeze. If it sours badly in summer when skinned, curd will be likely to get in the cream and remain more or less in the butter, after churning, forming white spots, thereby seriously injuring the quality of the butter. Or if the milk or cream freezes, when cream of butter will be made from it.

If cream is to be secured by setting milk, the best plan will be to set the milk in round tins, about 18 inches deep and 8 inches in diameter. If the can is placed in ice water or cold spring water, to the height of the milk in the can, the conditions for cream separation will be greatly improved, especially if inside a refrigerator. This method helps keep the milk at a uniform temperature and enables the cream to rise to best advantage. Such cans as these, open at the top, are commonly known as "shotgun" cans, and may be bought of dairy-supply houses, or can be made by any good tinner.

These deep cans are skinned in one of two ways—either by a special skimmer from the surface or by means of a faucet valve at the bottom of the can, where the skim milk is drawn off. In experiments at the Indiana station, in comparing these two methods of skimming, where the milk was skimmed from above there was an average loss about twice as great as in that skimmed by drawing off from below. During 15 days in February the average loss from surface skimming was 34 per cent, while that skinned from below showed a loss of but 17 per cent.

It is important that milk should be set only in tin vessels of good quality. The cheap tin sold in one- and ten-cent counters is so thin a wash that it is readily corroded to the under metal, which gives a rancid flavor to the milk if it sours in the vessel at all. Where used for holding milk the tin should be of XXX grade. This is more durable, still and less affected by the acid in sour milk.

In general, persons striving to make a fine quality of butter should use a cabinet creamer. In this the milk may be kept to best advantage and properly protected from objectionable odors and dirt.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY EXPERIMENT STATION.

REFLECTIONS IN THE CHAPEL.

A Highly Polished Brass Cross Given. Forbidden Information.

Recently the governor of one of our country prisons was greatly perplexed by the discovery that the female criminals in his charge managed in some mysterious manner to ascertain the presence of every individual man on the other side of the impenetrable dividing barrier which separates the male from the female worshippers in the jail chapel. One of the women inadvertently made an exclamation showing that she had suddenly become aware that her husband was within the chapel walls, although his presence ought, according to the rule, to have been completely unknown to her. None of the officers could account for an unpermitted knowledge, which was found to be shared by all the other women. At last a very careful examination of the chapel gave an explanation of the mystery. Although strictly divided, as we have said, both the male and the female prisoners faced the altar in their seats, and over it had been fixed a very large brass cross against the wall, so highly polished as to form a very good mirror, and in its clear surface the women saw the reflection of the imperious man he passed by his place, and had enjoyed the spectacle with impunity till the wife's affection overcame her discretion. The brass cross instantaneously disappeared.—London Hospital.

Infinitesimal Variation.

Time is valuable, but one seldom hears of much fuss being made over the thirty-six million part of the swing of a pendulum. It has been ascertained, however, that the pendulum in the Paris observatory varies one-third of an oscillation in 12,000,000, and a large sum of money is to be expended in correcting the error.

Will Try for a Record.

Two Paris aeronauts are going to try to beat the balloon record by remaining 24 hours in the air. The record is now held by Guy Tissandier, who in March, 1875, made a balloon journey of 20 hours and 40 minutes.

IN THE COLISEUM.

What the Excavations at Rome Have Revealed.

The excavations which have been carried on at late around the Coliseum at Rome for the purpose of giving a more complete view of the best preserved side of the amphitheater, have brought to light a number of interesting points, says the Independent. These excavations were started on the square opposite the street leading to St. John Lateran, and were continued along a zone, about 33 meters wide, around the entire monument, up to the beginning of the new Via del Serpente. The ancient pavement of travertine, which surrounded the amphitheater, was found at a depth of four and a half meters below the present level. This subsidiary zone of the monument measured 17.6 meters in width. Along the edge of this pavement the ordinary street pavement began, made of large polygonal blocks of basaltic lava. The paving blocks were in part wanting, as the ancient pavement was mostly destroyed in 1823, when water conduits were put in and the width of the pavement could, therefore, not be exactly determined, but it was followed to the width of ten meters. The spaces which surrounded the original position of the amphitheater to terminal cippi, or boundary stones, placed between the area of travertine and the pavement of the public street. Five or six of these cippi were preserved in their original position, on the eastern side of the monument, owing to the fact that they were incased in the foundations of the ancient Church of S. Giacomo di Coliseo, demolished in 1815. The cippi are of travertine, and terminate in a semicircle.

Throughout this entire surrounding area of the Coliseum Christian tombs of different periods were discovered. They are placed at various levels, some being on a level of four and five meters above the amphitheater, others on a higher level, and a number as high as two meters from the roadbed. It seems probable that the majority of these tombs were connected with the church which stood on this site, and of which no traces remain. These tombs are built of tiles and covered by caps; some of the tiles were stamped and came from ancient buildings which had been destroyed. One of the latest tombs, belonging to a group on the highest level, dates evidently from the seventh century, judging from an inscription engraved on a marble slab on the front of the tomb. This inscription closes with a formula of imprecation, menacing the violator of the tomb with the punishment of Judas, and this very imprecation is found in a number of inscriptions of the seventh century, with several changes in the words of it. In earlier inscriptions of the fifth and sixth centuries the prayer that the tomb be not violated is never followed by any imprecation. At the point where the large group of these tombs was found, there was discovered, in the foundations of the hole, a large rectangular mass of travertine, preserving a portion of its plaster coating, on which was a fragment of fresco, belonging to about the eighth century. The fresco represents two saints with circular nimbus and robed in long tunics which are decorated with Greek crosses. Each figure holds his right hand raised to his breast; the one on the right holds a crown, the other an open book.

JOKE ON HOPPER.

Amusing Experience of Chimmie Fadden While Traveling in Georgia.

Charles Hopper (Chimmie Fadden) had a most amusing experience some years ago while traveling with four or five negroes in Georgia. A stop was made on Sunday at Albany, Ga. The population of the town is composed largely of colored people. It was a dull day, and as Hopper walked down the street he observed many curious types of humanity, the quaintest of all perhaps being an aged negro, very ragged and poverty-stricken, with snow-white wool. His form was bent and gnarled by the vicissitudes of a long life. Hopper asked the negro his name.

"Hiram Jasper Scripture Dingman," was the reply.

"You must be a very old man, Hiram," said Hopper.

"Old?" answered Hiram. "I'm 110 years old."

"What memories you must have! Perhaps you remember Washington?"

"Washington?" answered the black centenarian contemptuously. "I knew Columbus."

"You did? How interesting! What sort of a looking man was Columbus?"

Uncle Hiram looked Hopper over a minute, and as he started to walk away said: "Columbus? He favored you a great deal, only he was thicker."—Berkshire Democrat.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

THIRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

18 pages week. 156 pages year.

It stands first among "weekly" papers in size, frequency of publication and richness, variety and reliability of contents. It is practically a daily at the low price of a weekly; and its vast list of subscribers, extending to every state and territory of the Union and foreign countries, will vouch for the accuracy and fairness of its news columns.

It is splendidly illustrated and among its special features are a fine humor page, exhaustive market reports, all the latest fashions for women and a long series of stories by the greatest living American and English authors.

CONAN DOYLE, JEROME K. JEROME, STANLEY WEYMAN, MARY E. WILKINS, ANTHONY HOPE, BLISS HART, DRABER MATTHEWS, ETC. We offer the unrivaled newspaper and the KENTUCKIAN together one year for $2.50. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK Courier-Journal.

$1 YEAR.

Issued Wednesday and Saturday Mornings.

Beginning January 1, 1897, the Weekly Courier-Journal was changed to the Twice-a-Week Courier-Journal. Publication days are Wednesday and Saturday. The Wednesday paper will be devoted to news and political topics. The Saturday issue will be devoted to stories, miscellany, pictures, poetry, etc.—a perfect family paper.

Each issue will be six pages, or twelve pages a week—an increase of two pages a week, 104 pages or 832 columns a year.

The policy of the paper will not be changed, and the battle for pure Democracy and true Democratic principles will be continued successfully in the columns of the paper. In spite of the expense involved in the improvements noted, the price of the Twice-a-week Courier-Journal will remain about $1 year. A feature during the coming year will be the editorials of Mr. Henry Watterson on political and other topics of the day.

"Saved My Life"

A VETERAN'S STORY.

"Several years ago, while in Fort Snelling, Minn., I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough, that allowed me no rest day or night. The doctors after exhausting their remedies, pronounced my case hopeless, saying they could do no more for me. At this time a bottle of AYER'S Cherry Pectoral was sent to me by a friend who urged me to take it, which I did, and soon after I was greatly relieved, and in a short time was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. WARD, 9 Quincy Av., Lowell, Mass.

A SEA WANDERER.

Vessel That Floated Over 6,000 Miles Before She Was Caught.

One of the most remarkable derelicts in the history of modern navigation met not long ago the fate which sooner or later overtakes these menaces to the shipping of the world. She was a first-class oak ship, guaranteed by her builders for 15 years from the date of her completion in 1890.

She was engaged in the lumber trade, which in all probability furnishes more derelicts than all the other carrying trades put together. The lumber seems to give a certain buoyancy to the vessels and prevents them sinking, even when water-logged. The Alma Cummings, for that was her name, was wrecked in the early part of 1893, and had to be abandoned by her captain and crew.

In the hope of preventing her being a source of danger to the other ships, the men set fire to her before they left her. The seas, however, put out the flames when they reached the water line.

When she was sighted, a couple of days after she had been fired, some of the lumber was still smouldering. It was this attracted notice to her. In the course of these 48 hours she had drifted some 60 miles.

Two or three weeks later she was again encountered about 550 miles from the place where she had been wrecked, having drifted across the Gulf stream. Continuing her course, she got into the regular "steamship lane," as it is called, and was off the banks of Newfoundland by the end of March, 1895, some six weeks after she had been abandoned. She had been drifted about 1,300 miles.

During April and May in the same year, she was occasionally seen on the southerly tack, and then nothing was heard of her until March, 1896, when she was encountered by the captain of the British ship Ormiston, over 1,000 miles to the south of where she was seen in May, 1895. During this period of nine months and a half she covered apparently about 3,000 miles. In all probability, however, it was much greater, as she most likely became entangled in the weed of the Sargassum sea, and drifted about in it from side to side, instead of going directly to the south.

It has been calculated that during her wandering over the Atlantic, from the place where she was abandoned to the island of the San Blas coast in the Caribbean sea, where she was being picked to pieces by the Indians, she covered a distance of considerably over 6,000 miles. In other words, she had traversed the distance between Liverpool and New York and back.

The most wonderful thing is that although they are frequently passed by steamers, these derelicts seldom or never are run into, and, therefore, cause no damage, although they are considered a menace to the safety of the seas.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

EVOLUTION OF SMOKING.

King Nicotine Began His Reign in a Modest Way.

But Now Vassals and Servants in Every Part of the Civilized and Barbaric World Acknowledge His Despotie Sway.

(Special New York Letter.)

It has been said that the tobacco habit is a curse to humanity. On the other hand, thousands are blessing the plant whose fumes afford them pleasure and consolation. Tobacco is held to be the friend of the rich and poor alike, and the laboring man after a hard day's work finds just as much pleasure in his clay pipe as the millionaire in his Havana. Some of the greatest men are warm advocates of the smoking habit.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY CIGAR.

and many of them have produced their greatest works under the beneficent influence of the narcotic leaves. Tenyson and he-pipe were inseparable friends. It was his steady companion from morning until evening, and the thicker the clouds of smoke would belch from it the faster the inspiring thoughts came to the poet. And so it is with many other mental toilers.

The first historical mention of tobacco was made by Columbus. When the great discoverer landed at the islands of the West Indies he and his crew saw with great astonishment how the natives smoked dried herbs. In his report he says: "They are dried herbs, rolled in a broad, dried leaf; they look like the small muskets which Spanish children use on Pentecost. On one end they are lighted, and on the other end the people sucked and drank the smoke by inhalation. They get drunk from it, but it evidently prevents them from getting tired. They call these small muskets tobacco." Little did the invaders think at the time that 400 years later tobacco would rule the world, and that the production of the herb would amount to over 2,000,000,000 pounds yearly, at the value of hundreds of millions of dollars.

For a long time after its discovery tobacco remained a stranger to the European nations. The Spanish settlers and adventurers in the new world accustomed themselves soon to the use of the herb, but the "barbarian custom" did not make any notable progress. In the middle of the sixteenth century smoking salams could be seen occasionally in European ports, but their example was not followed by the people in general. The cigars of that time were about the size and shape of a candle. It was not the cigar, however, which was destined to conquer the old world, but the pipe. Only with the advent of the latter began the victorious march of the narcotic herb around the globe.

In the course of time the Europeans in America became acquainted with various ways of smoking. The Aztecs in Mexico used peculiar pipes, about the manufacture of which the Franciscan monk, Bernardino de Sahagun reports the following: "Those Indians who sell pipes for the inhalation of tobacco smoke cut reeds and clean these to England, landing them in 1586 in Plymouth harbor. Here they created great astonishment, for tobacco smoking was not for the first time in England. The Indian clay pipes found in the ruins of the first English colony were the habit of the returning colonists was contagious. Soon one could see everywhere in England men with tobacco pipes, and in 1596 smoking in London taverns was common. The herb was imported from America, but the burned clay pipes were manufactured by English potter, and as early as 1619 the guild of London pipemakers was incorporated. In 1590 English students introduced the habit in Holland. The fact that tobacco smoking temporarily lost popularity of the smoking of habit efforts were made to improve and perfect the smoker's utensils, and many were the changes in style and material during the evolution of the rude Indian pipe to the perfect and artistic specimen of our day.

In the civilized countries cigar and cigarette smoking has during the last few decades largely crowded out the tobacco pipe, but the by far larger majority of smoking humanity all over the globe still adheres to the pipe, which in many cases has become a national characteristic.

The Turk loves the chibouk, with its red clay bowl, its long stem of weighed and its mouthpiece of amber, and frequently adorns it with gold and precious stones. In the farther orient, in Arabia, Persia and India, the water pipe is regarded as the highest favor. The Japanese smoke from metal pipes, which are frequently of the most exquisite workmanship, being inlaid with gold and silver. In countries of the minkado even young girls smoke dainty little pipes the size of a thimble, which have short brownish bamboo stems with metal mouthpieces.

The Kirghese bore a side hole into a mutton bone, fill the narrow cavity with tobacco and smoke through this primitive apparatus. Very simple is a Siberian pipe, which consists of the hollowed root of a tree. Next to this another pipe of the same country made of rough-hewn wood and adorned with tin mountings looks like a work of art. The latter pipe has also something which no other pipe possesses—an adjustable wooden protector for the bone mouthpiece.

It has been asserted that not all of the tobacco pipes of the Asiatic and African peoples have grown out of the North American pattern, but that the smoking habit was cultivated by some tribes before the discovery of America. There are no assured facts to this effect, but many circumstances point to the conclusion that the black race smoked long before the Caucasians. It was not tobacco, however, but the common, intoxicating leaves of the hemp and "dacha," another specific African kind of hemp. Leaves of other plants may also have served the purpose. How primitive their way of smoking must have been can be seen today among the Bechuans in Africa. A Bechuana constructs his pipe by forming a small sandhill with a crater-like opening, which he fills with hemp, dacha, tobacco, or other combustible material. Then he puts a glowing ember on top, and after inserting a tube through the sand to the pipe, he enjoys the smoke lying on his stomach.

Few things can be said about the native Australian smokers. They are not passionate smokers, and excepting the wooden spoonpipe, with the stem of bird's bone of the New Zealanders, and the "baubau" of the New Guinea tribes, one does not find interesting varieties. The "baubau" is a piece of bamboo more than a yard long, open on one end and having a side hole, like a flute, in it. A cigarette is put into the latter, the bamboo is filled with smoke by sucking at the open end, and the smoke inhaled through the side hole into the cigarette. This is the most tedious way of smoking in the world.

The shah of Persia owns the costliest and most magnificent pipe in the world. It is incrustated with rare and precious stones and said to be valued at $400,000. Capt. Crabbe, in Brussels, owns the most costly collection of pipes in the world. It is incrustated with rare and precious stones and said to be valued at $400,000. Capt. Money was in letters. An old pipe officer inspector says: "Money never should be lost in letters for transmission through the mails. In the first place, it is unnecessary to do so, because money orders are so cheap; and, in the second place, money in a letter offers a constant temptation to those who handle mail. It is practically impossible to place money in a letter so that the postal clerk into whose hands the letter falls will not instantly detect it. Paper money has a peculiar odor unlike anything else on earth, and the clerk who is dishonest uses his sense of smell in spotting valuable letters rather than the sense of touch."

A. CLARK, The Tailor.

Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, was inaugurated yesterday.

A Springfield, Ohio, dentist broke a girl's jaw bone while trying to pull her tooth.

The Calloway papers are now getting a taste of severe enough prosperity. Their columns contain 47 announcements of candidates for office.

The Harbor Defense and Improvement convention is in session at Tampa, Fla., this week, with sixteen of the States represented.

The Countess de Castellane, of Paris, formerly Miss Anna Gould, became the mother of a son on the 19th inst.

Ferry S. Heath, a Cincinnati newspaper man, will be President McKinley's private secretary. Heath is said to be a peach.

Senator Teller may well feel proud of this endorsement by the Colorado people. There are 100 votes in the legislature and he received all but six of them.

The Illinois Democratic Legislative caucus bestowed the empty honor of a senatorial nomination upon ex-Gov. Altgeld, who so gallantly led the fight last year.

United States Senators Jones, of Arkansas; Platt, of Connecticut; Hansbrough, of North Dakota, and Pritchard, of North Carolina, were re-elected Wednesday.

The Leigh Bros. have sold their interest in the Paducah Register to J. E. Wilhelm, president of the company. The Messrs. Leigh have not decided what they will do, but say they will probably remain in Paducah.

Teller, in Colorado; Platt, in New York; Penrose, in Pennsylvania; Vest, in Missouri; Fairbanks, in Indiana, and Gallinger, in New Hampshire, were elected to the Senate Tuesday. Four of the six are new men.

A Rowan county girl, who wanted to marry, in order to wear she was "over 21" placed a piece of paper in her shoe with the figure 21 on it and took the required oath without damage to her conscience. Love laughs at laws as well as locksmiths.

Editor J. Mc. Meloon, editor of the Murray Ledger, is a Democratic candidate for representative of Calloway county. Mack wobbled a little last year, but he has come around all right and will submit his claims to the Democratic primary March 27, from which all goldbugs are excluded.

Every man should be distinguished for some one thing and Wm. E. Mason, the new Senator from Illinois, will live in history as the only United States Senator who ever had thirteen sisters older than himself to ridicule him when he turned out his first mousetraps.

The Cubans seem to be giving the Spaniards trouble on the sea as well as on land. They sank the Spanish gunboat Relampago this week with a torpedo and sharpshooters on the shore coolly picked off the sailors struggling in the water. But few of the Spaniards escaped.

The President of the National Editorial Association, Col. R. H. Thomas, is being put forward by the Republicans of Pennsylvania for the office of Public Printer at Washington, D. C. Col. Thomas is perfectly capable of filling the place, and it would give great satisfaction to the newspaper fraternity all over the country to see him appointed.

The German National, of Louisville, and the First National, of Newport, Ky., were added to the long list of failing banks Monday and several assignments have followed the failures in both cities. The Bijou theatre, of Louisville, has also quit business and altogether the city of Henry Watterson seems to be one of the worst sufferers from McKinley prosperity.

The official call for a convention to nominate Democratic candidates for judge and attorney in this district, issued at the committee meeting at Edinville Wednesday, appears in this issue. The prostra convention plan adopted will doubtless meet the approval of all the candidates, and in taking the convention to Murray the committee also acted wisely. The time, April 8, is about right and the qualifications are sweeping enough to let in both Populists and repentant bolters. Altogether the committee did well and the ticket nominated at Murray will be elected by from 1,200 to 1,500 majority, provided the nominees are the right sort of men and good Democrats.

The election of a negro named Allen last year as one of the advisory board of Gov. Wolcott, of Massachusetts, has broken up the State dinners that used to be a feature of the meetings of the Executive Council. At the first meeting attended by Allen, held last Saturday, all of the white members were "too busy" to stay to dinner and there was no State banquet. Allen has announced his intention of giving a banquet of his own and inviting his associates to dine with him.

Ex-Congressman Wm. E. Mason has received the Republican nomination for Senator from Illinois and will succeed John M. Palmer. The contest has been long and doubtful, with a dozen candidates before the caucus. Mason is a native of New York, 47 years old and the youngest of fourteen children, he being the only boy. He is a lawyer and one of the most popular stump speakers in Illinois. He has served two terms in congress.

This week's scandal of the Bradley administration is in connection with the Lexington asylum. Mrs. Jas. E. Cantrell, of Georgetown, whose sister Miss Sarah Cecil is an inmate of the asylum, has preferred salty charges against Superintendent Scott, and Inspector Lester is now investigating them. Miss Cecil is worth about $100,000, and her wealth and prominence has attracted a good deal of attention to the charge that she has been cruelly treated.

Fusion arrangements between Democrats and Populists have been practically agreed to in every county in the Second District. The same thing has been done in Calloway, Lyon, Trigg, Crittenden and Caldwell in the First and in Breckenridge, Grayson, Logan and others in the Third and Fourth Districts. There are not more than a half a dozen counties in the four western districts that will go Republican if the silver parties wisely unite their forces in the local elections.

The legislature of Delaware has elected Richard Kenney, Democrat, United States Senator, but a rump legislature went through the form of electing J. Edward Addicks, Republican, to the same position. To further complicate matters, the Republicans in the Senate threaten to reconsider the right of Dupont, Republican, to the seat which was denied him last year by a vote of 31 to 33.

Congress General Lee telegraphed the State Department Wednesday that the American, Henry Delgado, correspondent for the New York Mail and Express, who has been a prisoner in Havana, died in the hospital Tuesday night. Delgado was captured by the Spaniards while he was lying ill in an insurgent hospital, in the province of Pinar del Rio, in December.

Congressman Benton McMillin, of Tennessee, was married Wednesday at Shreveport, La., to Miss Aida Lucille Foster. It was a church wedding of unusual brilliancy. They will go to Washington next week.

Some of the characters of "Dr. Bill."

ODDITIES OF "DR. BILL."

Story of the Play Which Has Kept New Yorkers Laughing.

The world loves to laugh. It is a sad age. Every serious-minded person seems to possess within himself or herself the mechanism for sorrow, so arranged that it can be turned to the full force of morbidity at the slightest suggestion. It is upon this truth that Hamilton Aide, the adapter of the French comedy "Le Docteur Jo Jo" into English as "Dr. Bill," relies for success.

The young and fast doctor, who from the irregularity of a Bohemian life in London which made him the intimate companion of a theatrical profession, steps with a big legacy into the bosom of a respectable family, loving a rich young wife well enough to forswear his old sports, and, with a mistrust in his powers of self-protection sufficiently to make him dread any chance of meeting his former-time boon companions, retires for safety to private life, literally lying in the arms of his wife like a ship in harbor, afraid to venture out.

A meddling father in law, who hates idleness, despairing of coaxing his newly made son-in-law back into his practice, of the dangers of which he is ignorant, resorts to stratagem. He orders and mails a sign to the doctor's front door; he sends circulars over London, especially to the theatre; he makes him the hero or a puffing newspaper item without his knowledge, and, as a result up jump several of his old companions to make things lively for him.

It is upon this excellent plot that Mr. Aide has worked out one of the comedy successes of the season.

TOBACCO NEWS.

HOPKINSVILLE MARKET.
(Reported by J. H. Eggleston, of Cummings & Co., Louisville, Ky., having in order of dealer in and handler of)

ANNUAL REPORT.
Hopkinsville, Jan. 1, '97.—"There is nothing that succeeds like success." We are glad to say that the many friends of the Hopkinsville Tobacco Market that we have just closed one of the most successful business years that it has ever had, as will be shown by the receipts for the year, which are more than 50 per cent. larger than last year, and more than double those of '94.

Hopkinsville being the natural market for the dark tobacco district, is rapidly pushing to the front. Owing to the very poor quality of the crop now in the hands of the growers, caused by the ravages of the worms, the outlook for the coming year is not very flattering, either to the trade, or to the producers. However, we feel assured that Hopkinsville, with her seven wide awake warehouse firms, occupying as they are eleven good warehouse buildings, well equipped for handling business, with two competing lines of railway, with four banks, representing a of a million banking capital, with a good board of buyers, with all the foreign and domestic order business, is in a position to compete with any other dark market.

While the stock of tobacco held in the Western markets is much larger than a year ago it consists almost entirely of common and non-descript varieties of leaf and common lugs, there being but few really desirable hogheads to be found. The crop of 1896 is conceded by everybody to be the poorest ever grown. You will notice in the list but little encouragement to holders of common tobacco, while the fortunate owners of the better grades may reasonably expect a fair price.

The gap between the good and the common grades is continually widening and the only way the farmers can hope to realize anything for their crops is to carefully sort their tobacco, putting each class in the hoghead to itself, and be very careful in pricing and make the packages perfectly uniform in color, length and quality. Throw the trash leaves back on the ground, which we think would be more profitable, as it will hardly pay the expenses of shipping and selling, and only serves to swell the socks of the world and thereby keep prices down.

The mixed condition of the crop will necessarily cause the inspection to be more rigid.

The decline in common tobacco for the last four years has gone steadily and rapidly down with previous years.

Comparison with previous years
December 31, 1896:

Receipts for month 1892 1894 1895 1896
46 100 150 220
880 1025 1450 2125
Sales for month 560 320 121 609
Total for year 705 1382 1892
Shipments for month 560 475 284 857
Shipments for year 7125
Stock on hand 1297 1797 1296 2420

Jan. 20, '97.—The market showed more life this week, as the demand was better on the common leaf and common lugs and have to report a cent higher on the common to medium lugs. The offerings are still very common, and nondescript varieties of leaf and common lugs, of the 1896 crop, only 4 hds. of 1896 crop offered, of like character as stated above.

The receipts are rather slower than last year. Farmers are more anxious to sell loose than ever before, on account of the great trouble it will take to class it properly to prime.

However, look forward to good receipts from now on. The demand for sample orders are coming in, and in a few weeks the strength of the market will be seen on the new crop.

Disolution Notice.

Following the dissolution of the firm of Garnett & Moore, I have to announce that Stephen E. Trice, Jr., is associated in the office with me under the firm name and style of Walter F. Garnett & Co., who will continue the General Insurance Business at the old stand, corner of Eighth and Main Streets, Hopkinsville, Ky., representing the following leading American and foreign companies, to wit: Royal Insurance Company, of Liverpool; Niagara Fire Insurance Company, of New York; Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.; United Fireman's Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Metropolitan Plate Glass Insurance Company, of Hartford (Accident Department) National Building & Loan Association, and Special Agent for the New York Life Insurance Company.

Thanking the public for past favors and respectfully soliciting a continuation of the same.

Respectfully,
WALTER F. GARNETT.

Notice to Business Men.

Business men should leave word at their homes if they want their houses numbered. It is impossible for census takers when assigning numbers to come down town and hunt up the business man, to find if he wants a number on his house. Trouble is being caused the census takers to do this and the work of numbering is being delayed. BE SURE AND LEAVE WORD AT YOUR HOUSE.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

The advocate says W. L. McNeal deputy sheriff of Warren county, writes equally well with either hand.

In a Postoffice election being held by the Madisonville Mail 380 votes have been cast for the Misses Earle, 1 for J. M. Martin and 1 for W. Beard.

L. Bugge's drug store at Morganfield was burned at an estimated loss of $15,000, with no insurance.

Henry Pribble, a Scott county farmer, while on a spree broke a blood vessel in vomiting and bled to death.

United States Judge Locke, of Florida, has sustained a demurrer of the defense in the case of the Three Friends, which is in effect a decision that Cuban filibusters can not be proceeded against because the Cuban insurgents are not recognized as a people or body politic.

Samuel Palatka, a Hungarian, arrested in Pennsylvania, confesses that he wrecked the train at Cahaba river, near Birmingham, killing 25 people, his object being robbery. A reward of $10,000 was offered for his guilty party.

J. Edwin Rowe is announced as a Democratic candidate for re-election as commonwealth's attorney of the Owensboro district.

John Luttrell and Mrs. Nora Haines were married at Luttrell, Tenn., Tuesday. The bride is only fourteen, but is divorced from her first husband.

Congressman Hubbard shows that in six years there were 183 hold-ups of trains and thirty-five persons were killed.

A bill placing an embargo on the high theater hat will be introduced in the Colorado Legislature.

Under the amnesty proclamation which the Spanish Government will issue in honor of King Alfonso's birthday, many Americans will be released from Cuban prisons.

Miss Sarah F. Dick, of Wabash, Ind., is the only female bank cashier in the country. She has filed that position in the First National Bank for 23 years.

Headley's Lecture.
The date of Dr. James Headley's lecture at Union Tabernacle is Feb. 1st.

Dr. Headley has no equal on the platform in the varied range of his gifts. He is a thinker, a poet, a philosopher, a humorist, a consummate actor, and a character impersonator unsurpassed, while in humor and pathos he moves his listeners as with the wand of an enchanter to laughter and tears at will. His "Lillian Adelle" Tatletail, at the Piano, "Patsy and Mike," "Texas Courtship," "M. Blunderbuss Bang's Pink and White Tea," "Rudy and Sandy," "Dick Weaver to the Miners," "Mrs. Gilde Roy's Blower's Claymation," "The Professional Church Choir," "Slumber Song," and other creations are unequalled in the history of the platform.

The Boston Globe says of him: "Dr. James Headley appeared for the second time in the Boston Star course at Temple last night. The doctor is endowed with a clear, musical voice, a remarkable gift of impersonation, and a power of expression which made every point in his discourse intensely interesting, and kept the greatest audience thoroughly entertained till the close."

The Blind Musician.

On the night of the 28th, Edward Baxter Perry, the pianist, will give a recital at Bethel Female College.

In his professional work, Mr. Perry's specialty is the lecture recital; that is a regular concert programme of piano works, accompanied by an informal lecture, centering chiefly about the compositions presented, but touching incidentally upon all points of interest in the lives and characters of the great Masters, and running into the fundamental principles of art and aesthetics.

In his remarks, Mr. Perry impresses upon his hearers, with strong and stirring emphasis, the dignity and value of music from a genuine art standpoint, and of art from the standpoint of humanity, thus securing from his hearers a keener interest and a more profound attention. His appearance here will be a real musical treat.

Child Fatally Sealed.

The two-year-old child of Thomas Hollowell was probably fatally sealed, at Princeton Tuesday afternoon. A vessel of boiling water was accidentally overturned on the child.

MATHRONIAL.

GANT-PARRISH.—Mr. Campbell Gant, son of Mr. M. Gant, was married at Owensboro Wednesday the 20th inst. to Miss Eva Parrish, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. W. E. Parrish. They will reside in Owensboro, after a wedding trip to the West.

JOHNSON—ALDER.—Mr. James W. Johnson and Miss Sarah J. Alder, both of the Pilot Rock country, came into the city Wednesday and were married at the residence of Mr. J. W. O'Daniel, on South Liberty street. Rev. Geo. R. Taylor, of the Universalist church, officiated. As soon as the ceremony was said the couple left for their home.

W. O. Buckley and Mrs. Stella Strachan, both of near Elkhorn, were married Tuesday.

Mrs. Buckley, whose maiden name was Stella Latham, was wedded quite young to Mr. Strachan, who after three years' married life, became unbalanced mentally and was placed in the asylum here, where he has remained ever since. Mrs. Strachan last year obtained a divorce from him, and this is her second marriage, both of her husbands being still alive. Mr. Buckley was a widower.

BOND-FORD.—Mr. McNeal Bond, of Jackson, Tenn., and Miss Cornelia Ford, of Earlinton, Ky., were married at noon Wednesday in a room in the Episcopal church, Rev. R. S. Carter officiating.

The attendance was limited to a comparatively small number of invited friends of the contracting couple.

The church was handsomely decorated with evergreens, flowers and growing plants. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Julia Venable on the organ and Miss Ida Greer on the violin.

The bridal party entered preceded by the four ushers, Messrs. Albert T. McNeal, Jr. of Memphis and Walker Wood, and W. Terry Benton, of Louisville and Hunter Wood, of Louisville.

Miss Irene Bond, sister of the groom, the maid of honor, came alone. She was followed by the bride leaning upon the arm of her father, Col. Joe F. Ford. Miss Bond was attired in a violet colored changeable silk. The bride wore a very handsome brown traveling dress.

The groom and his best man, Dr. Jere Cook, of Jackson, Tenn., entered from the vestry. Rev. Mr. Carter performed the ritualistic ceremony of the Episcopal church in an impressive and appropriate style. Col. Ford after giving the bride away stepped aside and the groom assumed his position by her side. The ceremony was concluded with the couple kneeling at the altar. After the wedding the bridal party repaired to Hotel Latham and partook of a wedding dinner in the ordinary. Mr. and Mrs. Bond took the 2:35 P. M. train for the South. After a bridal tour they will take up their residence at Jackson, Tenn.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Col. Ford and is a young lady of quietly bearing and unusual attractiveness. Her beauty is of a pronounced brunette type and she is tall and graceful. Mr. Bond is a young business man of solid worth and prominence. He has recently been in business in St. Louis but will have charge of a branch house at Jackson, Tenn.

MONEY FOR THE TEACHERS.

Checks For a Part of That Now Due Mailed by the Auditor.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 21.—While there is not enough money in the treasury or the School Fund to pay all the last one fifth payment due the public schools on January 1, it has been discovered that there is half enough, and the Auditor, will, by the co-operation of Superintendent Davidson, today mail checks aggregating one-half of that final payment.

This leaves about one-tenth of all the money due the teachers yet to be paid, and it is doubtful if they get it before all the schools have closed. This is owing to the fact that there will be comparatively little revenue, out of which the school fund gets a share, coming in before July 1.

The gross earnings of the L. & N. railroad company for the second week in January were $79,210, an increase of $7,275 over the same time in 1896. A comparative statement for the first two weeks show an increase of $10,245 over the same period in 1896. Earnings from July 1, 1896, to Jan. 14, 1897, compared with 1896-97 show a decrease of $133,123.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the money physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a complicated condition of the system, which the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed as highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physician, but in need of a laxative one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.
